

URGES EARLY ATTENTION TO SPEECH FAULTS

"If speech defects can be corrected before a child reaches school, what would be a heavy handicap for a child to bear in school can be avoided," Mrs. Dorothy L. Bowman told members of the Newmarket branch of the Women's Institute last Thursday. She was speaking of her work on speech defects of Newmarket school and pre-school children.

Special free speech help classes, sponsored by the Newmarket Lions club, were begun by Mrs. Bowman in September, 1943, and 35 children received help in correcting speech defects. This school year, 25 children were helped and the class since reduced to ten pupils.

Mrs. Bowman emphasized that speech defects are not always an indication of low intelligence. "Low intelligence is just one of many causes for delayed or defective speech and there are more than a dozen other causes," she said.

She listed defective hearing, poor nerve co-ordination, shift from left to right handedness, adenoids, "baby" talk, malformation of teeth and jaws among other causes of speech defects. She repeated that while defective speech is not necessarily an indication of a mental deficiency, if the defect is allowed to continue when the child enters school, his work will be retarded as a result. "In a great many cases, the defects can be easily corrected in the initial stages but if allowed to become habits they need continuous checking long after correction has been made," she said in emphasizing the need for correction as soon as possible.

"At the present time there are three aims that seem of the utmost importance. To develop each child's speech to his fullest capacity at the earliest age possible. To create a sympathetic understanding of speech-handicapped children and thus avoid unnecessary cruelty from innocent children and unkindness and insulting pity from ignorant adults. To promote co-operation between parents and teachers in overcoming a child's speech difficulties."

Mrs. Bowman said that following the diagnosis of speech defects, "it doesn't take more than a few minutes to help a child learn the correct positions for the sounds he has been giving incorrectly. Once the child has been shown the correct positions, he simply needs practice to eradicate the former bad speech habit."

Frank Bowser Prize Won By Two St. John's Pupils

With the Newmarket town hall bulging at the seams, the Newmarket veterans rang down the curtain on the second evening of their Amateur Blitz Thursday night. As on the night before, the major awards went to Toronto entrants, the one exceptions being Jean McDonald and Kenneth Burke of the St. John's school entry who won the special prize donated by Frank Bowser for the best juvenile act, with their Dutch dance.

For two hours and a half, Master of Ceremonies T. A. M. "Ab" Hulse paraded a total of 30 turns for the approval of Judges Rudy Renzius, Mrs. Jessie Smith and Fred S. Thompson. June Stoker won first prize for her eccentric dance with Patricia Burke, first prize-winner Wednesday, taking second prize for her tap dancing. Bob Redfern, with a pantomime of a lady taking a bath, was awarded third prize.

Other turns which just missed the prize list were those of Dorcen Hayes, tap dancer, Mildred Newton, acrobat, Glenda Paxton, 5, Tottenham, and several other juvenile vocalists.

The St. John's school entry was in five parts with a rhythm band, choir, Irish jig, Dutch dance and vocal solo well received. Ken Ponting handled the impromptu piano accompaniment.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Tess Gilkes appeared as Sarah Bugg of Seldomsen, delighting the audience with a Bird in a Gilded Cage, accompanied by the bird, and a recitation on the virtues of "old Newmarket."

SET CLOSING HOURS FOR DRUG STORES

The Newmarket town council Monday night passed a by-law setting closing hours for drug stores in Newmarket.

According to the terms of the by-law, the drug stores in Newmarket will close at 8 p.m. and not open before 5 a.m. throughout the week. On Saturday nights, the stores will remain open until 10 p.m. The stores will be closed all day Sunday.

DENIES RUMOR

Wm. LaParde, interim secretary of the newly-formed Legion branch in Newmarket, denied this week rumors that the formation of a Legion branch had as its purpose the provision of beer in some future club-room.

"There is no truth to the statement that the Legion is being formed to bring in beer," said Mr. LaParde. "A Legion branch is being formed solely on the merits of association with that dominion veterans' organization."

Foolish But Not Criminal, Judgment In Arson Charge

Magistrate J. E. Pritchard, K.C., dismissed a charge of arson against Michael S. West, Holland Landing, in magistrate's court here Friday. Magistrate Pritchard reserved judgment last week following defence counsel Joseph Vale's argument that there was no evidence to support the charge. The charge had been laid after West had thrown coal oil on his house and set a match to it.

In his judgment, Magistrate Pritchard found that the charge of arson must carry with it an intent to defraud. There was no evidence of such an intent, he said. The accused owned his house and carried no insurance. Referring to the crown's evidence that clothes of the accused man's daughter had been destroyed in the fire, he pointed out that West had given the daughter an opportunity to remove her belongings.

"The question before the court is whether or not the act constituted a criminal offense within the meaning of section 511 of the Criminal Code," he said. "There is no allegation in the charge that the accused set fire to his home for the purpose of defrauding. The evidence does not establish fraud or any attempt at fraud."

As owner of the house, accused has a "legal justification and color of right to dispose of the house as he sees fit" and cannot be convicted of the arson charge unless there is evidence of defrauding or an attempt to defraud, Magistrate Pritchard ruled.

"While I find the actions of the accused man very foolish, I cannot find that a criminal offence has been committed or sufficient evidence to call for a defence," he concluded.

See Milk Price Up 2 Cents As Ottawa Abandons Subsidy

Indications were this week that unless there is a change in present government policy on milk subsidies, the price of milk in Newmarket would increase two cents to 12 cents a quart to the consumer.

Dairymen in Newmarket said that while they have received no official word, if the two cents per quart subsidy paid by the government is taken off June 1, their prices will rise.

E. P. Williamson, Newmarket Dairy, said that he was uncertain of the prospects for preventing the increase. "Public pressure may make the government act to keep the price at ten cents a quart," he said.

Maurice Hall, Hillsdale Dairy, said that the price per quart would increase June 1, as did Don Cameron, Cousins Dairy. Both men pointed out that the two cents per quart subsidy paid to the producer had held the price to ten cents but if the subsidy was taken off, the dairies would have to increase the price of milk in order to meet the producers' costs.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, announced Friday that effective June 1, the federal government would cease to pay the two cents a quart subsidy to the milk producer. He also announced that the winter subsidy of 55 cents per cwt. of fluid milk to the farmer, reduced to 33 cents May 1, would be paid from that date to September 30.

His announcement said that on September 30, the federal government would cease payment of all subsidies to milk producers. The effect of the federal action is to return the control of milk prices to the provincial milk boards. Hon. T. L. Kennedy, provincial minister of agriculture, is quoted as saying that the province will not continue the subsidy payments discontinued by the dominion and forecasting an additional increase in price to the consumer in the fall.

Saying he had been a resident off and on of Newmarket for the past 13 years, Mr. Mather described a meeting of teenagers which he had attended earlier where there "was very keen enthusiasm. All over town, there are people anxious to get started in things that interest them. My job is to bring these people together and help them get started."

Before Mr. Mather was introduced, Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales said that he had returned to the town council because of his intense desire to help encourage community recreation. "It has become a most important sphere of action," he said. "I have returned to council in order to do what I can to make recreation a successful project here."

TO SPEAK HERE

Major John Weir Foote, the first Canadian chaplain ever to receive the Victoria Cross, will be guest speaker at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Sunday morning. Maj. Foote joined the chaplaincy service from St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Port Hope, in 1940, and went overseas in the same year. Born at Madoc, a son of Mrs. Gordon Foote, and the late Mr. Foote, Maj. Foote is Canada's 14th Victoria Cross winner of the Second Great War. The official citation says "Maj. Foote went through eight hours of terrible battle at Dieppe in which with utter disregard for his own safety he exposed himself to an inferno of fire and saved many lives by his gallant efforts." Maj. Foote was taken prisoner by the Germans at Dieppe. Newmarket veterans are invited to attend the service.

McGUIRE DIGS FIRST SOD ON HOFFMAN SITE

J. P. McGuire, general manager of the Canadian Hoffman Machinery Co., turned the first sod on the site of the new plant the firm is building at Charles and Queens Sts. Wednesday afternoon at a ceremony attended by representatives of Newmarket industries and civic officials.

The brief ceremony featured short addresses by officials of the company and the parent company, U.S. Hoffman Machinery Corporation, in which they praised the friendliness and co-operative spirit of Newmarket, and addresses of welcome by Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales, Aubrey Davis and James Law. Following the ceremony, there was a reception at the officers' mess at the camp.

A. C. Bruce, president of U.S. Hoffman, wired regrets because illness kept him from being present. Mr. McGuire acted in his place. "This is a great day for us," said Mr. McGuire. "We hope we can make good citizens in your community. We will do our part in community life and by co-operating with other industries here. We do not figure our success entirely in terms of the balance sheet. We try to put back into the community more than we take out."

Dr. Dales paid tribute to the firm's generosity in contributing $500 for recreation and pointed to the firm's unbroken record of labor-management friendliness. Councillor Joseph Vale acted as chairman of the ceremony.

Reporting on the position of the Newmarket military camp, Councillor Joseph Vale, chairman of the industrial committee, told the Newmarket town council Monday night that there has been no change in the camp's status since it closed.

"We have submitted an offer for the camp property and are awaiting a reply," he stated. "We have had acknowledgement of our offer. Now we feel the next move is up to the government authorities."

"In the meantime, the camp is 'frozen' and we have been assured that none of the properties or articles which we are interested in will be dispersed until our negotiations with the government are completed."

Community Firework Program At Park Planned For Safety

Under the sponsorship of the Newmarket Community Recreation Council, with the support of the Newmarket town council, parents and children in Newmarket are asked to contribute their fireworks to a community program at the Lions club park Friday night.

New to Newmarket, the action arose from a fear of possible repetition of a tragedy in Toronto where a young man was killed when struck by a sky rocket. A 15-year-old boy is facing a serious charge in court as a result.

MAYOR URGES SUPPORT FOR JOINT EFFORT

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales issued the following statement this week: "Last week in Toronto, a young man was killed when struck by a sky rocket carelessly fired by a 15-year-old youth, who now faces a serious charge in the police courts. It happened in Toronto and it can happen here. Every year, there are numerous burns, some of which could easily be serious. Every year children risk the loss of sight, of a finger or hand."

"It can be prevented if the citizens in Newmarket join together to prevent it. There is no reason to deprive the children of their annual May 24 spectacle but let's make it safe for them by setting off the fireworks under supervision in an area where no damage to property can result."

"I appeal to every citizen in Newmarket to join in this effort to protect the children of Newmarket from serious injury. At the same time, I am sure the substitute program arranged for your benefit will meet with your approval."

Former Newmarket Pupil Wins McGill Scholarship

Word has been received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Ewart, who live on the third concession of Whitechurch south of Bogartown, from Mervyn Henry Ewart that he has won a $750 scholarship to be applied towards his tuition in event that he continues his studies for a degree of Doctor of Philosophy in agriculture chemistry.

The 25-year-old scholar receives his master's degree this spring from McGill College, Montreal, where he has been studying while teaching at MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, near Montreal.

Born on his parents' farm, Mr. Ewart was educated at Bogartown public school and Newmarket high school. He received his bachelor's degree at Guelph after four years of study. Not yet certain whether or not to accept the scholarship, Mr. Ewart has written his parents that he may visit other universities.

A brother, Orval Ewart, is teaching at Sutton high school.

Anticipate Early Action On Town Garbage Plan

"We expect to call a special meeting within the next three or four weeks to report definitely on a municipal garbage collection scheme," Councillor G. M. Byers, chairman of a special committee, told members of the Newmarket town council Monday night.

"We have done a lot of work getting information and discussing alternative methods to handle the situation," he said. Mr. Byers told of attending a demonstration of a garbage truck in Aurora recently and the council discussed its possibilities. The truck, as described by Mr. Byers, had mounted on it an enclosed tank with a bucket slung at the rear. The bucket is filled with garbage and then lifted and dumped into the tank where the garbage is completely enclosed. "The tank has a capacity of nine cubic yards of garbage," he said. "The tank is emptied by dumping."

"Tank and truck combined would cost about $4,000 to $4,300," he said.

WHEN I WAS A BOY

This age with its emphasis on provision of opportunity for youth has produced some remarkable reactions among their elders. Walking sticks have been waved in violent denunciations beginning with "When I was a boy, there was none of this foolishness . . . etc." A lot of the walking sticks have been waved against the proposals for increased recreation for youth as well as adults.

"When I was a boy," say some members of the older generation, "when we wanted a game of hockey, we found a frozen pond. When we wanted baseball, we found an empty field. We didn't need swimming pools, the old swimming hole was good enough for us." There is much more in the same vein.

When such a critic was a boy, he could use any hole in the creek for swimming but since his day, uncontrolled use of creeks for sewage disposal has made them nothing more than open sewers. Not even the tadpoles can survive in them. The vacant lots have become factories and housing divisions, and are crisscrossed with high speed highways. The snow-cleared pond can't stand up to the league play in hockey that has developed in the last half century. The vastly increased numbers of children who want to, and are entitled to play, have outgrown the facilities of their parents where the expansion of town and city has not overrun them.

There is another side to it. The boy of 50 years ago was not subjected to manufactured entertainment. He was not the receptacle for high pressure publicity poured on him from radio, movie, and press, that his son is. The boy of 50 years ago was happy with a spelling bee and a taffy pull. His son would be too were conditions the same but jitterbugging has replaced the spelling bee and Frank Sinatra the taffy pull. It is not the fault of the boys and girls of today. But there it is.

The boy of 50 years ago did not have the memory of one world war and the participation in a second world war hanging over his head. He didn't have any notion of machines that flew through the air, or cars that travelled at 80 miles per hour. His was a kindergarten curriculum compared to what the high school pupils of today are taught. He had no worry beyond his immediate neighborhood while to the youth of today, the domestic situation in Timbuctoo is of immediate importance. They didn't make it that way, but there it is.

Times have changed in 50 years. The changes have been immense, so much so that a universal misunderstanding of those changes has resulted in part in two world wars. High tension has replaced leisurely living. Recreation, the provision of opportunities to play, is enabling a return to that fuller enjoyment of life that existed 50 years ago.

STRICT CONTROL FOR BRITISH FARMERS

The British people are accepting drastic cuts in their food rations in order to pass on all the food they can spare to Europe. At the same time, British farmers are extending their efforts to make every bit of acreage count in the total food production of the British Isles.

An extensive control is being exercised by the government to avoid duplication and overlapping of effort. A multiplicity of regulations direct the farmer's every act. About the only thing exempt from government control is the weather. But the British farmers are getting the crops in from all reports.

The United Kingdom Information Office bulletin tells in part of the conditions under which British farmers labor. British farmers were made to grow wheat, potatoes, sugar beets and other crops to the extent dictated by national needs. Only parts of their crops, judged unfit for human consumption, could be used for the feeding of livestock. The maximum proportion of tailings and screenings which could be used by the producer was fixed by law.

Not only were the farmers forbidden to feed their livestock with crops fit for human consumption, they were obliged to sell bread grain or fodder only to merchants approved by the ministry of food. These sales of fodder grain, with oilseed cakes, wheat offals, and other by-products of oilseeds and grain imported for human consumption constituted a pool out of which supplies were rationed for essential livestock. The result was drastic decreases in the number of pigs and poultry kept by farmers but increased the amount of grain for human consumption.

When peace came, the wheat growing controls were abolished and allocations of food-stuffs for pigs and poultry were increased. Now, however, the government has or is about to reimpose both these controls. Farmers have not been released from their obligations to sell all millable grain and edible potatoes. The total supply of fodder grain is still kept under control and directed only to livestock which it is desirable to maintain in order to provide the most food.

On top of these restrictions, compulsory cropping orders are being reintroduced and it has been decided to increase wheat acreage 34 percent above the pre-war average for 1947. British farmers are tired after seven years of concentrated effort. Their machinery needs replenishing but dollars can't be spared to buy American machinery. They have lost prisoners-of-war and Land Army labor. Despite these disadvantages, the bulletin says, "it is quite clear that the United Kingdom farmer is going to fight famine with the same intensity with which he fought the war."

INDIFFERENCE

When the new recreation co-ordinator, Mr. R. E. Mather, was introduced to the Newmarket town council Monday night, Councillor Joseph Vale warned him that of all the people that he would meet in the course of his duties, the indifferent ones would be the worst. Mr. Vale said in effect: If they are for you, you can work with them. If they are against you, you can answer their criticism or correct your errors. But if they are indifferent, you will be able to do nothing with them and in the end they will break your heart.

Mr. Vale speaks from over seven years' experience in public life. In his time, he has sponsored legislation which he believed in only to see it swallowed up in the apathy of indifference. Monday night, he spoke not with bitterness but with a political acceptance of things as they are.

Indifference is a curse which seems to afflict every community to a greater or lesser degree. Newmarket is no better and no worse than the average. Yet indifference, whether large or small, can be a terrible thing. It might be excused if it could be said in truth that if a man has no interest in a community effort, it is no one's business but his own.

But it cannot be said. What affects the community is the business of every citizen in the community. How one person reacts to a community effort is also the business of everyone in the community. Yet the community could afford to ignore indifference were it not for the fact that it is from the indifferent ones that comes the chronic complaint, "nothing ever happens in Newmarket, it is as dead as Aunt Milly's Persian cat."

It is time that those who from the depths of their indifference whine that nothing ever happens in Newmarket realized that nothing ever will happen in Newmarket until they shake that deadening apathy they surround themselves with and step out and help make something happen in Newmarket. It can be done. It is in the process of being done. But it can never fully succeed until there is brought to support those working on behalf of the community, the full co-operation of every citizen.

What Others Think

IMPLEMENT PRICE INCREASE

(Free Press Herald, Midland)

Price advances are never popular with consumers. It would be strange if farmers shouted with joy over the 12 1/2 percent increase which has recently been granted the makers of farm implements.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley made out a good case for his decision to let prices rise. He declared that with one minor exception prices had been held throughout the war at or below the ceiling prices of the basic period in 1941. During the same period costs had gone up to such an extent that a price increase of 30 percent would be necessary to allow the same margin of profit as in 1941. The level of farm prices has increased in the same period by 44 percent. They were, of course, too low in 1941, but if a floor is to be put under present prices the farmers will continue in a much happier position than they were in pre-war days.

The advance of 12 1/2 percent was permitted so that the implement industry might get into a financial position which would enable it to survive and achieve a maximum of production.

THE DAIRY INTERESTS WON

(Times-Review, Fort Erie)

A bill, sponsored by Senator W. D. Euler, to remove the prohibition on oleomargarine to Canadians, has been rejected by a vote of 43 to 30 in the senate. Thus the law of 1886, which banned the importation, manufacture and sale of margarine, remains in effect.

As this paper has remarked before, this continuation of 60 years of discrimination against a wholesome, palatable substitute for butter is probably of little practical consequence in the prevailing circumstances. The world shortage of edible oils and fats is such that little or no margarine would likely be available in this country in the near future, regardless of its legal position.

What is objectionable is that a segment of the people of this country, engaged in the production and sale of fluid milk and its products, are able to exert enough political pressure in their own selfish interest to deprive the rest of the people of a healthful food which they want. The unfairness of the situation is accentuated by the fact that the dairy interests have been, and still are unable to satisfy the demand for butter. Yet, if and when vegetable oils become more plentiful, efforts to prevent their conversion into margarine will be redoubled by the dairy interests, if it seems necessary to do so at that time.

In the course of the debate on Senator Euler's bill, Senator J. J. Bench offered the following provocative thought:

"I suppose that parliament can prohibit the importation of any substance into Canada, but manufacture and sale seem to me to be matters of property and civil rights, and as such to come within the legislative powers of the provinces. I doubt very much if this parliament has any more right to enact a prohibition of the manufacture and sale of wholesome butter substitutes than it would have to enjoin the making and selling of, say, patent leather shoes or rayon stockings or even nylon stockings."

Unfortunately, testing the constitutionality of an act of parliament costs a great deal of money before it can be submitted to the highest court for a verdict. And most of those who are best equipped at present to manufacture margarine, are also engaged in the butter and egg business in a big way.

What Constitutes a Good Home?

A good home is a place to live in physically, a place to have fun in socially, and a place in which to improve mentally and emotionally. The child to be desired is free, natural and friendly. It is not enough to give a child every advantage unless those advantages include good health mentally as well as physically. There must be a good atmosphere to produce natural healthy children. Children should be treated like human beings with not too frequent punishments or lectures. Parents and children should be good companions, having a good time living together and enjoying their home. Dictators are disagreeable to children; unquestioning obedience makes discomfort. Children should not be considered a nuisance.

Some parents are too busy to get acquainted with their children. Some parents restrict, punish or criticize, and ignore the child's need of privacy. The home is the place where we learn how to live, the more enjoyable, the easier it is to learn. The home situation should, have naturalness, physical comforts and the necessities of living.

A good home is a place in which: 1. Both parents are genuinely interested in their children and show it by enjoying working and playing with them. The supper table should be a happy place where the parents and children enjoy each other and the children are seen and heard.

2. Children feel they belong. They are welcomed in every room. The home isn't too immaculate for comfort. The children know their parents will try to understand them.

3. Children like to bring their friends. Their friends are welcomed and not criticized after they are gone.

4. Parents realize no two children are alike. They avoid comparisons and treat the child as an individual, knowing children in general and what to expect at various ages.

5. When parents lose their tempers they let bygones be bygones. They are fair and reasonable and willing to listen to the child's side of the story, believing that the child is innocent until proved otherwise.

6. "You must" or "you may not" is not just an expression of authority.

7. Parents have a set of values which set the example. Parents are sympathetic and considerate of others.

"We represent the rank and file of the sane thinking women of Ontario, both urban and rural, and we are standing together in defence against an evil that is undermining our homes. This evil is women's beverage rooms. We consider women's beverage rooms the most immoral and degrading force ever to exist in our province. We feel we can no longer tolerate them because of the conditions which they produce."

This, in part, is a brief submitted to Premier George Drew by a delegation representing 207,079 women, belonging to 3,614 branches or auxiliaries of the following provincial organizations: The Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, the Provincial Council of Women, the Catholic Women's League, the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Baptist Women's Missionary Society, the United Church Women's Missionary Society, the United Church Women's Association, the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, the Ontario Girls' Work Board and the Rebekah Assembly.

The brief continues: "It has always been woman's responsibility to keep the moral standards of civilization on as high a plane as possible. But these moral standards of civilization can be no higher than its womanhood. We are fearful of the destructive force the women's beverage room is wielding. There has been an alarming increase in illegitimacy, juvenile delinquency, venereal disease and divorce in our province. While we know this increase is not entirely due to the women's beverage room, it is common knowledge that it is the greatest contributing factor."

The delegation was graciously received, but at the same time, elsewhere in the same building, "the attorney general, Mr. Blackwell, was introducing to the house the bill for this enormous extension of mixed drinking," said Mrs. W. R. Lang, at the Metropolitan church protest meeting. "Mr. Drew tells us the new cocktail lounges will be respectable but women are fully aware what the specious respectability of beverage rooms has done to our women. They are afraid to test this law at the bar of public opinion."

OTTAWA LETTER by "Jack" Smith, M.P. North York

The long-debated citizenship bill received its final reading in the house this week and now goes to the senate for ratification. While it may provoke some lengthy discussion in the upper house, there is every reason to believe that it will be passed. The bill establishes and recognizes Canadian citizenship. Formerly, the only definition of citizenship was found in the Immigration Act. In future Canadian passports will carry the words "Canadian citizen".

Agriculture matters are much to the fore in government circles. Several farm producer deputations have been here conferring with ministers, officials and members. The important announcement regarding milk subsidies by Agricultural Minister Gardiner followed these conferences and it is possible further announcements may be coming. Holding the line in price control is a difficult task today. There is general agreement it would be suicidal to take the lid off all controls but pressure from one group or another is constantly being exerted in favor of a relaxation on some particular item. In themselves, these appeals look fair and reasonable, but in the end it is a vicious circle and one concession just leads to two or a dozen requests from other sources. When the price board conceded an increase to the implement manufacturers there followed an insistent and reasonable demand for an increase in farm prices.

The farmer is doing a hard and important job and certainly deserves every encouragement given to him at this time when the products of the farm are in such urgent demand. I would point out that it was found after careful examination by the price board that supplies of farm implements would have been in jeopardy without some adjustment. It is very important that some control be maintained but it is only reasonable that adjustments must be made from time to time. An adjustment in one place, however, almost invariably necessitates adjustment in prices of other lines. This is the vicious circle so often referred to in press and on the platform. The task of government is to hold the line against inflation and see that in any necessary adjustments the interest of all classes in the country are protected by corresponding adjustments. In this task the co-operation of the people is important. If the people will give the board support in maintaining a reasonable level of prices we will be spared great hardship and disaster in Canada.

It has been decided that the consumer subsidy on fluid milk will be removed as of June 1 and control over prices will be returned from that date to the provincial milk boards. That is, insofar as control of prices is concerned, the position will revert to where it was prior to the coming into effect of the prices board so far as fluid milk prices are concerned. In order to allow provincial boards an adequate period in which to make necessary price adjustments, a subsidy of 55 cents per 100 pounds will be paid to producers of

The Canadian system of price and wage stabilization would seem to have earned the fighting support of all Canadian workers.

The parliamentary flag committee now has reduced the flag designs to five. Devadas Gandhi, son of Mahatma K. Gandhi, Indian leader, was an interested spectator from the speaker's gallery in the House of Commons Thursday afternoon.

Wednesday evening the Ontario cabinet ministers and their wives entertained the Ontario members and their wives at a banquet and dance at the Chateau. These social events bring members together and are delightful affairs, welcome respite from official duties.

I plan to be home this weekend for Richmond Hill's annual fair on May 24, one of the historic institutions of York County.

I am receiving representations from many in the riding urging that the government apply income taxation on exactly the same basis on all forms of commercial enterprise, including co-operatives, crown companies, municipal and government undertakings and mutual concerns. The proposal has some strong opposition from some western members, as the grain pool handling some 45 percent of western wheat would be one organization included in the proposed policy.

The Youth Of Today

This is the second of a series of articles on a discussion carried out by representatives of Canadian youth at the recent education conference in Toronto. The discussion centred about the findings of a Youth Commission which has been at work the last two years.

By Mrs. M. B. Seldon

The second speaker on the findings of The Canadian Youth Commission was Y.M.C.A. worker, Jack Evans, who gave a summary of the findings of the committee on recreation. The question has been asked, "Are Canadians recreationally illiterate?" What is recreation as practised by Canadian youth? Talking, listening to radio programs, reading, dating, dancing and loafing are the most common forms.

These are in the main passive occupations and dull, uninteresting people are the result. Only the few are permitted proper recreational facilities, swimming pools, gymnasiums, youth clubs, etc. Youth demands opportunities to make use of leisure time to better advantage. It demands a fair share in community activities with the accent on sport. It demands cultured recreation, too, dramatic clubs, art and craft classes, hobby groups, etc. The universities and training schools are being asked to broaden their courses to train leaders for this movement. "Penny pinching in this field is one of the most expensive forms of thrift in which an nation may indulge."

Marion Morris gave the resume on youth's views on our educational system. Our education in fluid milk from May 1 to September 30, 1946, it being understood that this subsidy will be removed completely at the later date. This will mean an increase in the price of milk to the consumer and a trend to the elimination of subsidies. In favor of the elimination of subsidies is the fact that when cost increases are allowed and take place they are felt directly by the consumer without the shock absorber of subsidies. This in itself may tend to help hold the line against inflation. After all it may be well that we get back as quickly as possible to fundamentals in economics and get away from depending too much on artificial respiration.

TO THE EDITOR

The Editor, the Newmarket Era and Express: I would like to express my hearty approval of the tone and matter of your editorial, "Letters to the Editor," on May 16. With the co-operation of your readers, I am convinced your letters to the editor column can be made a very interesting and informative feature of our local and district newspaper.

Allow me to quote a few sentences from your editorial. "There are only two restrictions on letters to the editor, they must be signed by the writer, they must be within the bounds of good taste and libel laws. With an eye on those rules, the editor handles all letters that are written, without prejudice." I believe no reasonable person will find fault with so few restrictions.

As I understand the situation, it is imperative that writers of letters to the paper for publication must sign their name to them, not necessarily for publication. The editor must demand this much for his own protection. The letter writer, too, has responsibilities and should never be ashamed to put his name and address for publication to anything he writes, although we allow there are exceptions to this rule, as there are circumstances when the name of the writer is immaterial. To be specific, I feel that any writer criticizing a person through the press should always give their name and address for publication, and forget about their false modesty and hatred of publicity.

To get down to cases, let me draw attention to a writer in your last issue who signed himself "A Student." A fair sample of the type of writer under discussion, this student undertakes to criticize the writing of another person, a lady who wasn't ashamed to give her name and address. Such a person as "A Student" is not even a real sport. "A Student's" identity is obscure to the public but judging by the way he writes, he appears to have made good progress. Now if he can only add a little more chivalry and courage to his other qualifications, he sure will go places.

J. Williams.

SPRING

By GOLDEN GLOW

How do you like my title for this small article? Spring sounds so simple, just one word, but oh! what a host of things that one word calls up! We say early spring when winter still hangs round, and late spring when the weather turns unseasonably hot. Such a scampering round it means for young and old — and we say we have "spring fever."

The housewife takes it out with the annual upheaval indoors and the smell of paint and turpentine permeates everything. But is there anything more satisfying to the feminine heart than when we hang the fresh curtains and sit back with a complacent sniff and say, "Did you ever smell anything so refreshing as the smell of freshly washed curtains?" We sniff and sniff again, and it is like the "shoe fly pie and apple pan-dowdy" — we can't get enough of that wonderful stuff!

Yes, fresh, crisp curtains usually mean another room finished — so no wonder we sniff their delightful odor. "Maw" takes it out house-cleaning and if "Paw" likes a garden, he tackles the out-of-doors. If he likes fishing, he hunts up his rod and tackle and disappears. The chap who likes golf, polishes up his golf irons and hunts up golf balls if he has any, that is. Daughter tries on last year's sun-tan suit and swim-suit and wonders if it shouldn't be a trifle shorter. Son has so many activities for spring I can't take time to set them all down.

The baby's play-pen appears on the lawn, and the baby revels in the May sunshine. All sorts of new buildings spring up here and there and cement blocks seem to be greatly in demand in place of wood. The town employees are busy with the new sidewalks and the Hydro is also busy with putting the street lights on the buildings so as to take the poles off the west side of Main St. Fairly Lake is full up, and sparkles in the sunshine. The green grocer's display shows home-grown asparagus and folks who can spare the sugar are "doing down" rhubarb.

Oh, are we busy, so busy we wonder how we can ever do all the things we want to before the extreme hot weather strikes us. It seems to come all of a sudden — the spring, then the hot weather. Vacation days will be here before we have completed our plans as to where we want to go — and yes, before we know it — cold weather will be on us once again. Let us hope it won't mean empty coal-bins. I said "vacation days" — well if the railroad strike materializes, a lot of folks won't have a holiday at all. I'd better end this rambling article, I'm getting out of my depth. I'll do better next time — I hope.

GOSPEL ECHOES

Holiness of Heart By Rev. L. E. Sparks, Minister of the Church of the Nazarene, Newmarket.

"For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, but unto holiness." 1 Thess. 4:7. All true Bible holiness is theology in doctrine, but it is not true that all theology that is called by that name teaches Bible holiness. Holiness is not a theory, but an eternal fact in which is set forth the real nature of God's holiness and absolute perfection.

Holiness is not a creed, but a revelation of the absolute perfection of God, and every child of His has a right to the quality of that holiness. Jesus said, "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in Heaven is perfect." This is the holiness of God in quality.

The word creed is a confession of faith for public use and church doctrine, but such a creed may not always represent true Bible doctrine. Whenever a creed takes the place of our pure Christian worship in any church, it becomes a stumbling block in the way of life. Any creed that crosses any of the doctrines laid down and taught by Jesus, the Son of God, should be rejected, for if they are followed by professors of Christ they will lead to darkness and despair.

Holiness is the normal way of Christian living; it is not infallibility, or adamic or absolute perfection in the child of God, but it is a state of purity of heart akin to the Holiness of God.

Oh, what a world this would be if all professors of Christian religion had pure hearts and lived pure lives free from sin and in harmony with the will of Almighty God, this is the greatest need in the Church of God today.

LIONS TOLD OF WORK DONE BY MOUNTIES

The work of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was described to the Newmarket Lions club at the regular meeting of the club last week in St. Paul's parish hall. Sgt. Wm. Kelly of the R.C.M.P. told the club that no single case of sabotage had been reported during the war and he attributed that fact in part to the vigilance and protective work of the police.

Sgt. Kelly described the advantages of a national police force in the exchange of information, a national network of officers which could be mobilized at short notice and provision of centralized offices with criminal files and laboratories. He cited the case of a criminal who committed forgery in several cities. Capture in any one of the cities in which the forger had committed a crime would have drawn only a short sentence. When he was finally caught, the R.C.M.P. were able to lay enough charges against the accused to result in a long penitentiary term, Sgt. Kelly said.

The duties of the R.C.M.P. include the enforcement of all federal laws and in six of the nine provinces, the R.C.M.P. serve as provincial police. Only Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia have separate provincial police, Sgt. Kelly said. The present staff of the R.C.M.P. numbers 3,000.

Sgt. Kelly said the force had no trouble maintaining its numbers. "We are swamped with recruits," he said. Standards for the force are high with emphasis on intelligence and ability to deal with the public among the foremost, he said. "It is not long before a recruit realizes that he is a member of a force with a high tradition," Sgt. Kelly stated. Sgt. Kelly appeared in a dual role at the club. Before his address, with his wife accompanying him on the piano, he sang two numbers which were received with considerable applause.

By AB. HULSE

Marj McCannan started a new page in her sports career last week as she made her debut with the famous "swing skirts" of international girls' softball fame, Toronto Sunday Morning Class. For the past three years, the Newmarket gal has been playing senior softball with Simpson's at Sunnyside but shifted her allegiance to S.M.C. this year in one of the season's many playing shifts. All could not have been well in the big store camp for at least four players have moved elsewhere. Matter of fact, it was a shift of second basemen between S.M.C. and Simpson's. S.M.C. has been organized longer than any existing team in Toronto and has been well represented in the prize winning circle and most years has made the trip to the American championship tournaments.

They'll be garbed in chartreuse and mauve this year and the outfits are on a par with the best in the past. The swing skirt idea is one of the prettiest in a sartorial way and has been adopted by many teams in America since S.M.C. set the style. Marj will be with a contending team and should be headed for a big year.

Bennie Harris, who played hockey for Sutton Greenshirts a few years ago and later was with Camp Borden, is wielding a lacrosse club for Toronto Lakeshore this season and doing right well. Don Campbell, who will be remembered as a winger on the first Brampton camp hockey team in 1943, is another coming performer with the Toronto team.

Lou Vipond of Brooklin-Whitby is also doing a turn for the Lakies. Lou is the hockey player who blew into Newmarket camp last winter and was ruled ineligible by Prexy Jim Walker and Sec. George Haskett as he had already played for Whitby in intermediate A, much to the disgust of Bing Caswell and Syd Bowman. "A bleeding shime" was the way Sydney the Magnificent described it. Jim Borthwick, winger on the Newmarket camp hockeyists this winter while still in the army, is catching baseball in the Stanley Park community circuit, Toronto. Jim is a product of Carman Bush's Columbus Boys teams. Ivy, in Simcoe county, comes back to organized baseball this season with an intermediate O.B.A. team. They produced some great teams in the past and several years went a fair distance towards a championship. Lefty Lennox, great south paw of Stouffville and still able to hurl a few innings, was a product of the Ivy team, while Barrie, Collingwood, Orillia, Aurora, Meaford and other teams all used ex-Ivy players at various times.

Bill Martin, known as "Paddy" in the days of Harry King, Doolley Butler and company came out of the north to pitch and play the outfield for Aurora. North York minor baseball, according to the plans for junior and midget, calls for a single home and home series between all the competing teams which, if Willowdale is an actual entry, would give each club 12 games evenly divided. The first four teams would go into a play-off to decide the league titles. Then for O.B.A. play-off purposes, the Yonge St. section will be considered one group and the eastern section another, with both sections sending a team into the O.B.A. playdowns and they presumably would meet each other in the first round. That should keep things rolling merrily and should enable all the teams to enter the provincial title hunt better prepared than in the past for their foray.

Aurora cycling club, which had planned to hold a dinner and honor roll ceremony this month, has called off the whole affair until next fall, according to Secretary George Spence. But it's definitely for the fall agenda. Scarcity of butter, meat and fixins as well as hall and catering difficulties were the main reasons for leaving it over. The club hopes to hold some races in the early summer and be in full swing by its annual Thanksgiving Day race.

Clint Robertson, who played some sparkling basketball for Newmarket camp and later for Armored Corps at Camp Borden, paid us a visit last week. Robbie is attending Williams College at Montreal, preparatory to going to Queen's U and he played senior basketball in the Montreal City league last winter. He was on his way home to the Soo and we had quite a gabfest about Newmarket and Borden.

Blake Underhill, formerly of Aurora (Underhill's Shoe Factory), has been elected president of the Barrie Curling club. From present reports it is not too certain that the Barrie curlers will have artificial ice by next winter but eventually they will. George Cosford, Aurora race horse trainer, has renewed his license with the I.C.R.A. for at least his 15th straight year. George hopes to have his horses going full tilt on the track soon. Bill McDonald, former warden of York and owner of the great Tulachmore, was also granted a license as was Percy Rickard who handles Willigleit for Norman Helise and many other steeds as well. Summit Golf club will be the scene of the Ontario Junior Golf Championships this summer. We don't know yet whether or not there will be any of the younger players from the Highlands club entered but local youngsters are handy to Summit for practice and the experience would do them good. May 24 brings the Coronation Shield play at the Aurora course in the a.m. while in the afternoon a mixed two-ball match will bring out the ladies. President Bill Books and Captain Walter Millgate are expecting a big turnout and keeping their fingers crossed for Old Sol to shine. In the evening the Aurora Lions Carnival takes place in Aurora town park and an exhibition softball game is expected to be carded for the early evening.

Why golfers grow grey! Some months ago we read a bit by Paul Talbot in Opportunity which we clipped and at the risk of the editor using his blue pencil we give you the following: "Golf is a form of work made expensive enough for businessmen to enjoy. It is what letter-carrying, ditch-digging and carpet-beating would be if they all had to be performed on the same hot afternoon. The game is played on carefully manicured grass with a little white ball and as many clubs as the player can afford. A golf course has 18 holes, 17 of which are unnecessary and are put in to make the game harder. A hole is a tin cup in the centre of the green. A 'green' is a small parcel of grass costing about $1.65 a blade and usually located between a brook and a couple of apple trees or a lot of unfinished excavation. The idea is to get the ball from a given point into each of the 18 tin cups with the fewest number of strokes and the greatest number of words. The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled by about $200 worth of curious looking implements especially designed to provoke the owner. After the final or 18th hole, the golfer adds up his scores and stops when he reaches 87. He then has a shower, some refreshment, sings Sweet Adeline with six or eight other liars and calls it a perfect day."

We think you golfers will want to clip that one too and perhaps some of the golf widows also. Bill Books is still the low handicap player at the Highlands club, rated at six in place of five last year. Larry Molyneux, the club champ, is down to seven from a previous nine-stroke rating, while Herman Gilroy, Eric Bilbrough and Herbie Cain are among the best rated players in the club this season. The handicap committee think they have done a good job this year but there'll doubtless be some disagreement on the ratings before the year is out. Cain is hitting the ball with abandon right now and is expected to cut quite a dash this year.

The ladies need not worry about the class of their play for the two-ball foursome on the afternoon of the 24th. It's all in fun and bids have been sent out to 43 femmes who have played at the club to participate. There are good prizes and handicaps will be settled to give all an equal chance.

Many an over-expanded household has endured the "bathroom problem", but lack of ADEQUATE ELECTRIC WIRING is a more subtle irritation. Having to move the chandelier to plug in the vacuum cleaner, for instance, just because the only wall outlet is back there... with all the lamps and the radio hooked up to it. And then there is the new range or water heater you would like to have if the main wiring would only stand the strain. That is where the real rub comes... when you can't use some new electrical convenience until new wiring is installed for it.

Many homes are not wired for modern demands. As more appliances become available, the use of electricity keeps right on climbing, and makeshift wiring adjustments lead to trouble.

That is why it is so necessary for you to insist on adequate wiring for your home, be it old or new. Hydro rates have been reduced until they are now among the lowest in the world. Enjoy full benefit of low-cost electrical servants by having your home adequately wired. A good electrical contractor knows how to wire adequately, and your local Hydro will gladly give you information.

is with Lees of the same circuit this year. Bill, aside from his softball, is playing lacrosse with Combines and last winter was a member of the Combines hockey team, winners of the Richmond Hill league, which showed in Newmarket against the camp. Morley Schandlen, goody-ball pitcher for Midhurst Foresters in the old York-Simcoe league and a real veteran, is back in action again this season with Vespra Legion in the Centre Simcoe circuit. Morley is in the outfield and will also do the relief hurling.

Turning back the pages of time on the district softball situation prior to the war, here are the rosters of the teams who made up the league in 1939 and there's quite a few changes, but still and all, more than a corporal's guard ready to play again. Newmarket Redmen, who were rulers of the roost at that time, had Wes Niles, Alex. Webster, Bill VanZant, Chuck VanZant, Lefty Glover, Bob Peters, Jack Luck, Pete Neufeld, Doug Trivett, Pee-Wee Hilton, Chuck Cunningham, Herb Cain, Harvey Gibney, among others.

Aurora listed Nuggets Shore, Bill Bone, Ace Yake, Lyall Sparks, Ray White, George Hodgins, Wilfred White, George Patterson, Ray Downing, Wes Heaney, Hank Clubine and Max Buck (a catcher, who has disappeared completely from our ken).

King City was in the league and the honors were upheld by Gord Walker, Mike Shatka, Ewart Jennings, Marvin Hunter, Bill Walker, George Davis, Ross Follitt, Aub Lloyd, Leon Shropshire, Johnny Dew and Art Walker.

Sutton in its first and last appearance in district play had Bill Burkholder, Jim McKelvey, Whammy Milroy, Leon Smith, Harvey Tomlinson, Doble, McNeil, Fairbairn, Waldon, Tilson, and Hamilton.

Richmond Hill had Charlie Proctor, Teddy Bennett, Harold Echlin, Bill Buchanan, Tim Saul, John Mabley, Art Crean, Jimmy Crean, George Stong, Steve Ygung, Huck Young, Ron O'Dell. There may be other names that come to mind, and it is easy to confuse years, but these lists are as close to official as we could obtain. Newmarket won the league that year, defeating the Hill in the finals. King failed to make the playoffs. Newmarket had a tough job bouncing out Sutton, and the Hill dropped Aurora in straight games.

Aurora R.C.O.C. softballers, both girls and men, are going to be smartly sweated this year. New sweaters have arrived with blue body, red and white shoulders, and red trim and "A". Both teams have sent through the funds from the depot canteen. The men christened their sweaters on Friday night but it was not a success as Joint McComb and his Newmarket town-Sharon aggregation caught the Aurora boys on an off night, and romped off with an easy one-sided victory. "Glad we got that one out of our system," says Herbie Holman and Ace Yake. "Can't happen again," says Denny Richardson, the team's official critic. Be that as it may, McComb was hurling a fair brand of ball, and if the same club represents Sharon in the Lake Simcoe league, they'll take a bit of beating.

Jack McDonald and his Newmarket veterans softball club are still homeless. Last week in Aurora, Jack was beelining because of the delay in calling the clubs in the Lake Simcoe Softball League together and figured his boys would be included in the group. Last Friday the meeting was held at Sharon, with around 50 mushball enthusiasts in attendance and the canaltown ex-servicemen were denied a franchise. The league figured they would be too strong and wanted to retain the purely rural status of the league, and since they already had ten teams entered, they weren't a bit fussy about including the vets. The teams which indicated their willingness to face the bar-

TO IMPROVE LONG DISTANCE SERVICE

To provide facilities for fast-growing long distance service, the Bell Telephone Co. will complete in 1946 a gross construction program of over $3,000,000 for this purpose, alone, according to C. E. Bosdale, company manager here.

Part of the overall plan will result in expanded long distance facilities serving Newmarket, and additional circuits or voice channels connecting this community with Beeton and Tottenham are being installed. A number of other circuits needed to handle telephone traffic in the vicinity of Barrie, Midland, Orillia and Bracebridge are also being added.

rier are Sharon, Pine Orchard, Queensville, Hope, Mount Albert, Baldwin, Zephyr, Roche's Point, Keswick and Willow Beach. There was quite a discussion about player eligibility, which was still not finally adjusted, but definitely a player must be a resident in his team's territory by May 1. That clause it is figured will keep out the summer residents at the lake as well as those in transient work gangs who have presented problems to the league in other years.

Percy Mahoney of Keswick, who has done yeoman service for the league in other years, was chosen as president and Percy brings to the post aggressiveness, experience, and good common sense. It is to be hoped the petty squabbling that has plagued the league in other years will not flare up this season. Horace Pearson of Mount Albert handles the difficult post of secretary-treasurer but he is well versed in such matters and again it is a good choice for the league.

All clubs will be represented on the central executive. The question of play-offs, grouping, etc., will be settled later. The ten-team group in its present form, while providing plenty of competition, looks a bit unwieldy. Our advice to the league is to put every possible rule down on paper, settle policy and adhere strictly to the line on all points all season. The league fills a big need in the North York sports picture and we are hoping for some good co-operation with this column so we can keep hep, and you can too, on what's what. Where will the Vets get softball grouping? That's still the $64 question, but a solution will likely be found some way.

Weston, where a return to lacrosse is being made this year, is toying with the idea of two entries in the North York Lacrosse league. A verdict will be arrived at this week, it is hoped. The southerners are certain to start in the juvenile section but may not be included in intermediate.

The advent of Weston to the league will be welcome from the gate standpoint and will be popular with the fans for Weston was once a name to conjure with in lacrosse circles. Remember the Farris, the Ellas, the Coulter, and other doughty warriors of the past? There are a few fellows around Aurora and Newmarket who simply by looking in the mirror can recall the games in the old Weston Fair Grounds.

The King's Plate comes up on Saturday, and it is to be hoped there is a fast track. Last Saturday, despite the rain, the Woodbine terrain wasn't as terrible as many thought it would be. Kingarvie must still rule as favorite, but we're a bit partial to Double Briar who failed to show in the plate trials, while Bluesweep was coming mighty fast at the finish, and since the trial was a shorter race, may have the necessary stuff. Mrs. John Stuart's Bonnie Liz was highly fancied at the distance and attracted a large following at the pari-mutuels with McTague, brought up from New York, aboard.

Williegiv finished in the third spot in the main race, and while we'd like to call Norm Heise's filly to win, we just can't see either her or Bonnie Liz up front. The real dark horse of the race is David T. Can he repeat his effort of last Saturday? Colors for Williegiv are: "Silver grey, burnt orange shoulder straps, cuffs and cap." The Stuart colors carried by Bonnie Liz, and this is the female side of the house, are: "White, red hoops, red cap." If you're at the track you can bear that in mind. Shepperton was scratched on Saturday in the Highlands Handicap by Fred Schelke. Tulachmore, owned by Bill MacDonald, "ran like a pig" to quote and unquote one of the many thousands who made him the odds on favorite.

It was a sad day except for Kingarvie, for those who play the favorites, and that goes for the many women at the track (they are inveterate backers of the favorites). Next week will perhaps provide more upsets.

Gadabout won the Anthony L. Smith steeplechase, named in honor of the late Capt. Tony Smith of Aurora who was killed overseas. The race was worth $1,500 plus possession of the challenge trophy (must be won three times to be kept), and a piece of silver plate. What's our advice or tip for Saturday? We give it free of charge—Don't!

TIME MARCHES ON.....

Take a quick look at your calendar! If you're going to gather eggs this fall, you should be starting your chicks! Early chicks can take their time about growing and maturing. But June chicks haven't much leeway. If you're going to get them into production by top-price time, they've got to grow and develop FAST.

That's one of the many good things Bray Chicks are noted for.

By using good, tender, green pasture, you can raise good chicks very cheaply. Order Bray—Order today!

Poultry Population

It is now almost certain that there will be more pullets go to the laying houses this fall than ever before. Reports from hatcheries indicate that the hatch this year will surpass the record hatchings of 1944.

However, there is no need to worry about the possibility of over-production "breaking the market". With meat rationed in Canada there is a stronger than usual market for poultry meat. Britain has assured our government that they are in the market for all our surplus egg production.

All indications point towards a profitable time for the poultryman this year. Of course, he must be a good manager and a good feeder or his profit may be drastically reduced.

A good feeder TODAY is a SHUR-GAIN feeder because SHUR-GAIN means balanced feed at LOWER cost.

Hill Downs Combines 4-3 In Boxla Opener At Rink

Lacrosse came back to Aurora after an absence of a decade and close to 500 fans were on hand to welcome the return of Canada's national game on Tuesday night. They saw a fast, evenly matched game, despite the fact both teams were playing their first game of the season, and fully 50 percent of the players were tyros at the sport. Combines who call Aurora "home," went down to a 4-3 defeat to Richmond Hill Young Canadians although on the night's play they had a shade the best of it. A third-quarter attack by the Hill found Combines faltering momentarily and the flurry netted the winners a trio of goals.

Combines, resplendent in classy red, white and blue sweaters, looked as if they would lead in the first quarter, but the veteran Alf Stong held them to a singleton from the stick of Jimmy Reid at 8:00. Ray Burton and Jack Hobday of Combines drew the lone penalties of the period. Ray Burton, fifty centre star of the home club, scored a beauty in the second as he sifted a sizzler past Stong from close in. D. Palmer, Pollard and Reid drew sinbin seats. The period was a costly one for Combines as Jack Hobday suffered an injury and from there on the defence was never the same.

Doug. Palmer, former King City hockeyist, was the big noise in the third period, the stocky Hill forward banging home two goals past Gordy Smith and feeding Ed. Brown the pass for another. The Hill, once they had reached paydirt, began to improve strongly. Phil Stewart and Hughie Kerr were banished for a promising Donnybrook, which the judge of play, "Pug" Harding, nipped in the bud.

Combines evened the count at 5:0 of the last quarter, with Cleve Burton doing the honors and the heat was on. With Combines ganging hard and Stong battling 1000 in the nets, the Hill just about broke up the game several times, finally doing the trick with Doug Brown catching the upper right corner as Smith failed to get back to his net in time. From there on the Hill were content to play it safe, and Combines wasted their opportunities by firing wildly.

Both goalies played stellar games saving many difficult shots. For the Hill, Waters, Doug Palmer and the Brown brothers were best. Combines feature performers were Ray Burton, Jack Hobday and Jimmy Reid, Charlie Ryan, masterminded the Young Canadians, while Huck Young maestroed the losers.

Combines: goal, Smith; def., Hobday; Ward; rover, Ray Burton; c., Harry Burton; for., Cleve Burton, Hugh Kerr; subs., Norm Bowen, Bill Bowen, B. Thompson, J. Elliott, J. Reid, S. Johnston, N. Alexander.

R. Hill: goal, Stong; def., Pollard, Donald; rover, Massinger; c., Waters; for., E. Brown, D. Brown; subs., Rose, P. Stewart, M. Stewart, D. Palmer, Hall, Neal, G. Palmer, Barrow.

Referee, Ab Hulsey; judge of play, "Pug" Harding.

Between the second and third quarters and following the main bout, Aurora juveniles and Combines juveniles hooked up in a scoreless exhibition draw which tickled the fans. The boys lacked savvy and style but gave out with the oomph with everything they had. Both teams need plenty of practice but they'll come along nicely. Between periods the veteran, Ollie Whitmore, and Bill Patrick were off giving the lads a few pointers and heavy workouts are scheduled for next week.

Combines will have a home game probably next Friday while the youngsters will make their debut soon.

Faith In Canada Urged Upon Cadets At Annual Parade

Over 300 boy and girl cadets from Aurora high school and Aurora public school paraded to Aurora United church for divine service on Sunday afternoon.

Taking part in the service were Rev. Roy Hicks, Rev. A. R. Park and Rev. R. K. Perdue. Taking the "Royal Canadian Army Cadets" as a text, Rev. Mr. Perdue analyzed the meaning of each word and urged the cadets to "have faith in Canada and in the future."

The word "royal" stood for all the allegiance they owed to their country symbolized by the king and to the empire as well, he said. "We are all proud of being a separate nation and yet part of the commonwealth. Our rulers were shining examples of the Christian way of life, in charity, home life and example to their subjects. Humility and a deep sense of responsibility marked their lives." He hoped the connection with the crown would always be maintained.

"It made me proud to see the high esteem Canada and Canadians were held in overseas," said Mr. Perdue. "As a result of our showing in two wars, Canada's stock is high all over the world." He urged his listeners to see national life always maintained its high aims.

Army stood not alone for things militaristic, he said, but he liked to think of a great "Christian army" determined to see justice and equality on the earth and the preservation of freedom. Christianity in its broadest sense was the only hope of the world, he added.

"Cadet" meant younger son or brother, but it was only a passing stage, he declared. "Today's youth are tomorrow's men and women. Youth had done a big job during the war." He noted how the Nazi youth movement carried the brunt of the German war effort in the last days of the war and said they were doughty adversaries. "If with their misguided zeal they could do such a job for their country, how much should our youth, with the Christian ideal and the finer things of life to inspire them, be able to do. Inspiration is needed in our lives if we were to fulfill our role in life."

Following the service, the corps paraded up Yonge St. where Mayor Ross Linton, Dr. G. W. Williams, chairman of the high school board, and Dr. C. J. Devins, chairman of the public school board, took the salute. The high school cadets were under the command of Cadet Major Charles Seath and the public school cadets were commanded by Cadet Major J. Gilbert.

PLANT EVERGREENS

Evergreens have been planted this year at Aurora arena by Aurora Horticultural Society which is again planting two flower beds in front of the arena and one at the rear of the United church. Next year, when the new streets planned for Aurora are opened, the society expects to plant trees in the new areas.

Boxla Enthusiasts Prepare Aurora Entry For League

Lyle Sparks, sponsor of the Aurora juvenile lacrosse club, is busy these days conditioning his young hopefuls who will provide Aurora with the first homebred team since 1934. Around 15 boys have been working out, and Mr. Sparks and manager Harry Sutton welcome any other youngsters who desire to try out.

The team will be garbed in dark blue sweaters with light blue trim, bearing the words, "Aurora Dairy," and those in charge have been fortunate in securing a fair amount of sticks and equipment. While none of the Aurora kids have previously played Canada's national game, many of them are displaying plenty of skill. Stick-handling is a weak point as yet, but there is plenty of speed and savoir faire among the kids. Noted amongst those seeking a place on the team are Billy Mundell, Eric Smith, Loring Doolittle, Bill McGhee, of hockey fame, Jackie Flicker, "Baldy" Ellis, Walt Tunney, Tracey Barrager, Dave Summers, Phil Davidson, Bill Patrick, Charlie Southwood, Bob Warlow, Grant Preston, while others are expected out this week.

An effort is being made to obtain Bill Patrick, former Aurora intermediate player, to handle the team. Bill in recent years has worked as a hockey coach.

Richmond Hill, Maple, Combines, and Miller A.C. of Weston will furnish the opposition and a meeting is being held in Maple next week to draw the schedule.

Considerable interest is being evinced locally in the game and with the added presence of two or three of the better known local kid athletes, a strong team should be developed. Any others wishing to make the team should contact Lyle Sparks for further information.

A member of Snowball United church, he had been active in the affairs of the township for many years. In politics he was a lifelong Conservative, taking a keen interest in North York elections for many years and being polling sub-division chairman.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. C. E. Cragg and pallbearers were: William Case, Lancelot Case, Alex. Ritchie, Arthur Morning, Arthur Storey and Robert Steckley.

He is survived by his widow, the former Annie Morning, one son, Douglas, Toronto, three daughters, Mrs. Alex. Ritchie (Babe), Leamington, Miss Madeline, Newmarket, and Mrs. J. Brown (Betty). The late Clifford Case, K.C., former M.L.A. for North York, was a son.

Lions Club Plan Extensive Summer Sports Program

An extensive summer sports program has been arranged by Leonard Simmons, chairman of the Aurora Lions sports committee, and it should provide plenty of recreation for Aurora youngsters.

Bill Holloway will handle the junior O.B.A. entry which will be entered in the York Lions league. This will care for boys to the age of 20.

Mr. Simmons will guide the fortunes of Aurora midgets, who played in the O.B.A. semifinals last year. This is for boys up to and including 17 and a strong team is on hand.

Expect Milk Price To Increase 2 Cents To Consumer Here

While no definite word has been received from the government, Aurora dairies expect the price of milk will rise two cents a quart to the consumer on June 1, and by next fall, the price may even be higher.

Explaining the situation, Lyle Sparks of Aurora Dairy pointed out that there were two factors to be considered. "First of all the dairies received two cents a quart from the War Stabilization Prices Board to reduce the price of milk from 12 cents, as it was in Aurora to ten cents. This has now been entirely lifted and unless a change of policy is made at Ottawa the dairies, in view of the fact that operating costs are based on the figure of 12 cents, will have to raise the price accordingly."

Mr. Sparks didn't think Ottawa would take any move in the matter. He pointed out that consumers who bought tickets in advance hoping to use the low priced tickets when the new price came in would be out of luck as the Milk Control Board would not allow this to happen.

"Once the price is raised, the old tickets in use now will not be worth a quart of milk but only ten cents to apply on a quart of milk," he said. Many people had been buying quantities of tickets thinking to save money.

In addition to the subsidy paid dairies, the picture to the producer was as follows. Milk was bought by the dairies at $2.25 per cwt. In the winter months, the federal government paid a subsidy of 55 cents a cwt., or $2.80. From May to September the subsidy was 25 cents or a total of $2.50 per cwt. The government had announced that the subsidy was being withdrawn in its entirety. Whether or not the farmers would be prepared to carry on at the lower price was problematical. This subsidy actually represented a cent and a half on the price of milk so that if the price to the farmer was raised above $2.25 without a subsidy from the government, the dairies would be forced to pass this on to the consumers.

Arrangements in force in wartime of no credit to customers and deposit of five cents on bottles would still be in vogue. This had been one means of keeping down the price of milk and it had worked satisfactorily for the dairies and consumers and would be continued.

"The dairies don't want to raise the price of milk to the consumer, but there seems no other alternative unless Ottawa intervenes," said Mr. Sparks.

Four Aurora residents and one ex-resident have been honored with election or appointment to important offices in provincial organizations recently.

Miss Laura Naughton of Toronto, who formerly resided here, was elected assistant secretary of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association.

Survey Plans To Extend Streets, Open Factory Area

Aurora councillors held a two-hour inspection of proposed new street areas and looked over the problems involved in providing sewage, water, street lighting, and other services on Monday evening. Town engineer W. H. Redfern accompanied the council and will submit a report for the next council meeting outlining the steps to be taken and the estimated costs involved.

Involved are the extension of Edward St. and the opening of Wells St.; the opening of Cousins Drive; the grading of Kennedy St. east and its extension; the grading of Burnett St.; the connecting link between these streets; the providing of water service on Wellington St. to Trent's farm and beyond for rural users.

Following the inspection, the council adjourned to the chambers to approve the purchase of lands needed for streets from Lorne Cousins at a price of $1,500 in the new area. The council received from Mr. Cousins a gift of six acres of land. The agreement with the Hart Manufacturing Company (Canada) Ltd. was approved and has been forwarded to Hartford, Conn., for approval.

The town will need to the company certain lands upon the completion of a roof on a 300' x 50' building on the Edward St. extension. The plant will provide for an underground garage and apartment living quarters for non-resident executives in addition to the one-storey factory space. The Aurora Building Co. expects to start work before the month is out.

Miss Hazel McBride of Aurora, who teaches Grade III at Aurora public school, has accepted a position on the staff of York township public schools and has submitted her resignation to the board. Carol's Fourth Year

Some months ago, The Era and Express carried an article by Mrs. Dorothy L. Bowman, Newmarket, telling of the first three years of her deaf-blind daughter, Carol. In the following article, Mrs. Bowman tells of the fourth year of Carol's life.

Carol's development from the inert deaf-blind baby, born on Thanksgiving Day four years ago, to the happy and active little girl with partial sight and awareness to some sounds has been very gradual. There has been nothing spectacular in her achievements; yet, day-by-day routine, with a few new experiences each day, has brought about satisfying results. Carol more than justifies any effort we have expended in her behalf.

Beginning the Fourth Year Carol's fourth year began with her first real party, celebrating her third birthday anniversary. Carol sat at the head of a long festive table with eight other girls and boys. Although the other children knew about birthday parties, none was more excited, and none enjoyed the ice cream and cake more than Carol.

At that time we were in residence in Berkeley, California, miles and miles from our home. A family United Carol's father flew from our Canadian home to spend the month of December with us in California. He was Carol's nursemaid for two weeks, during which time she charmed him into waiting on her and thoroughly convinced him she could neither walk nor down stairs but was accustomed to being carried both ways. (Now Carol enjoys racing up and down stairs holding with both hands to the rail.)

During the School's Christmas holidays, we had a cottage at Santa Cruz, and spent the days taking sightseeing tours by bus, including trips to the Big Trees, Monterey, Carmel, and Pacific Grove. After one night in the cottage, Carol considered it home, and babbled happily when we returned there after each day's trip. She would go directly to the piano for a music lesson. During her first three years, music was made a part of Carol's daily program. This continued throughout her fourth year, the only difference being that now Carol herself chose the time for her music. Whereas I had always had to think about accent in music, Carol seems to have a natural sense of rhythm. Carol graduated herself from the Mother Goose pieces to selections with more musical variety and interest. "Welcome, Sweet Springtime," "Three Little Kittens," "The Spider and the Fly," and "Oh! Dear! What Can the Matter Be?" register high in her favor at this time.

Special Trips Carol had many new experiences the Saturday we went in a group to San Francisco Golden Gate Amusement Park. At first, she cried about every new event, but she learned to enjoy everything before we finished with it—except the spiral slide, which we tried just once. The swings, the merry-go-round, train rides, rides on a live pony, and even sitting on an ostrich just to have a picture taken—all proved fun after the newness passed.

On Good Friday (1945) Carol took her first airplane trip—a round trip to Sacramento, California. We were all dressed up in our new Easter outfits for one of the most uneventful adventures of our experience. I can honestly say that Carol appreciated the trip by limousine to and from the airport much more than the flight itself. She sat just on my lap turning the pages of some pamphlets during the entire trip. The stewardess commented that most children Carol's age were disturbed by the altitude, and held their ears, or cried. Evidently Carol's ears didn't pop like those of the rest of us, or she would have given some indication.

Needless Worry We seem to worry most about the things that never happen, and are suddenly obliged to grapple with something entirely unexpected. I am thinking especially of the dreaded five-day train trips to and from Berkeley. On the trip to California, there was a group of very congenial sailors in our car. They took turns amusing themselves playing with Carol while I went to the dinor for meals. It was easy to transport food to Carol and feed her from jars at our seat or in the rest room. Once, while I was leisurely eating during a train stop, a group of Carol's escorts took her outside and let her play with a dog—and a chocolate bar—on the station platform. When next I saw Carol, I wondered at the two large dirty marks on her dress. In contrast, her face, hands, and knees looked unusually clean. The truth was that she had looked so unrepresentable after her adventure on the station platform that two of the young fathers had given her a bath in the men's washroom before returning her to me!

The return trip was especially dreaded because Carol wasn't feeling well; she had a cold which was bothering her ears. She would want to be quietly amused by me the entire trip, never giving me a chance to stand in line at meal time. We had enough food to last Carol two days; after that, what? Carol has to be feeling right to accept new foods, or even familiar foods prepared in a different manner. What actually happened was that Carol wanted to sleep practically all the time, and ate so sparingly that her food lasted until we reached Chicago. Never was a trip with a child less of a nuisance.

Home and Hospital Carol's father met us in Toronto. We can't be certain that Carol recognized him as the man who lived with us during the Christmas holidays—six months previous. In any event, she accepted his open arms, and continues to approve of them.

It took both Carol and me several days to adjust to our own home. For the first three days Carol just tagged me around the house. Finally the trunk containing her familiar toys arrived. The freight charges on that trunk represent the best value I've ever received for money expended. Carol was thrilled with her old toys—especially the swinging horse, which she had learned to master completely after six long months of coaching. At first, the horse had frightened her because it moved every time she touched it. Now she mounts and dismounts it like a veteran, and swings so hard that she moves the standard off the floor and comes down with a thud-thud; the harder she lands the louder she laughs. Riding that horse is the one thing Carol can do better and faster than other children who try for the first time. She senses her skill at this and has to be held back to give other children a turn—after which she rides her fastest, with a very superior and possessive air. Fortunately, her manner doesn't register with the little friends, who prefer to play with her other vehicles anyway.

One of the first things we did after returning home was to arrange for a tonsillectomy for Carol. Her tonsils were diseased, and she was troubled with frequent colds which always affected her ears. To subject a three-and-a-half-year-old to an operation and hospitalization without giving any explanation didn't seem fair but we had no choice in the matter. To our relief, Carol was very happy with the new adventure, and even liked the hospital crib, which had animals carved on it—different from her own plain-spoked crib. She liked all the different nurses, and they thought she was very good, because she was friendly and wasn't a cry baby. After the operation it was only a matter of a few days until Carol was as lively as ever, and we couldn't help thinking how much easier little operations are for young patients who don't know fear.

Various Stages It hasn't been difficult to keep records of the various stages of progress in Carol's fourth year. She has averaged more than one distinct stage a week, which is few as compared with any ordinary child, who moves faster than it is possible to record. We have recently been trying to encourage Carol in some of her childish manoeuvres. It seems advisable to ignore the undesirable manoeuvres rather than try to suppress them, and thus make an issue of them, which we are tempted to do before we recognize them as a passing stage. We have found that a stage passes more quickly if minimum attention is paid to it.

It's easy enough to say "simply ignore undesirable stages" but it is quite something else at times to do just that. In the instance of Carol's scratching and pinching, we should have ignored but failed to do so. When she happened upon that little pastime, she had no evil intentions, but the results delighted her; obviously she felt the power of her little fingers, and felt herself the master of the situation. She thoroughly enjoyed the reactions of people resulting from her sudden little pinches and more vigorous scratches. She quickly stopped these pranks with those of us who ceased to be moved by them. However, each new person was a fresh target, and we had to solicit the co-operation of everyone with whom she came in contact. The idea of giving pinch for pinch and scratch for scratch didn't work with Carol. When I tried that method of correction, she evidently thought I was playing a new game; when I decided to ignore her, she took my hand and put it on her hand for me to pinch her. She must have thought I didn't understand, for she proceeded to pinch my hand again, and then pinched her own. We left it at that. I was so amused I had to change the subject.

Switching on and off lights; wanting to be lifted to reach ceilings; opening and closing doors and drawers; swinging on the shower-rack; removing magazines and papers from rack; unrolling toilet paper; tearing paper into tiny bits; climbing into cupboards to lie on shelves; walking circles around anything and anyone she could cling to for support; crawling around smaller objects, such as small rugs, toys, a piece of paper, or even the sun's reflection on the floor; fingering around the edges of papers, magazines, and bed coverings; putting things on the floor for the pleasure of picking them up; removing paper covers from books; rearranging flowers in vases; using the hand-iest piece of cloth for handkerchief (especially fond of ladies' skirts and men's collars); playing in a dry bathtub; removing towels from racks, and hopping from rack to rack; fingering the glass on pictures, mirrors and windows; wiping walls, windows, mirrors, etc. with damp washcloth; falling for fun—all were passing stages.

At the present time Carol's greatest joy is to stand in a doorway and see how long she can keep her balance before she has to grasp the doorframe for support. She complicates this by quickly clapping her hands while she is standing alone for a few seconds. To my knowledge, she has never completed the third clap before having to grab for support. Carol is certainly enjoying her new game and it certainly looks exciting. Before she tires of it, she is laughing too hard to play it.

Aids to Walking Carol has had a variety of gadgets to help her walk, and to give her better control of her legs. In the beginning, a pair of walking skis helped most. They had her own shoes nailed to them and were attached by bands of rubber to keep her feet in line. There were poles fastened to the front of the skis. The idea was for Carol to help her feet move by means of moving the poles with her hands. Actually, she never did do this alone, but with help she had some very busy ski walks, and when left alone learned to stand without falling. Carol has a slide on the verandah, but she won't venture to climb its nine steps unless someone is with her. She has a rocking horse, and a bouncing horse, besides her favorite swinging model. Her tricycle is a little large for her, but there are blocks on the pedals, to which are attached straps that slip through her sandals to keep her feet in place. Carol doesn't ride alone, but enjoys being pulled by means of a strap attached to the handle bars. It's a question who gets the most exercise!

With a revised baby-walker, Carol is on her own all over the house. Her father took out the seat, took off the top circle, inserted upright pieces, and then replaced the top round. It works beautifully, and Carol can stand upright while she pushes and pulls it as her support in walking. The walker gives her practice in walking forward, whereas she had to walk sideways when holding to furniture and walls.

Carol's father has spent much time on his weekends at home building in wood many of those "maybe-this-would-work" ideas. Lately, Carol has been enjoying an enlarged kiddie-car. She doesn't sit on it except to get pushed, but uses it as a walker, often using just one hand to steer it and to support herself at the same time.

Just now Carol's room is under construction. A six-foot square corner of her room is in process of becoming a playhouse. Already, it has a window that works, a door, and a light to switch on and off. Carol is getting used to the new quarters. Her cupboard of toys is inside the playhouse, and she doesn't hesitate to go under the roof after them. She has certainly been testing the uprights that support the roof and is fascinated with the hinged window. Everything is handy for her to reach and this should be an incentive for her to keep on her feet. Besides, what with the toy cupboard, the doll bed, the table and three chairs, there's hardly enough room to fall. We are hoping we will all have as much fun with the finished project as we have had thus far with the building of it.

Because of Carol's imperfect balance, she has had to cling to something for support all her four years. Until recently she had had only a few falls because she never forgets to hold on; even the time both feet flew out from under her at the top of the stairs, she hung tightly to the rails with both hands until she was rescued.

About two months ago we spent considerable time just falling for fun during walking lessons. At first it looked as if that practice were a mistake. Carol preferred falling to walking, and she was getting some terrible bumps, too. However, the falling-intentionally stage passed, and Carol now loosens her grip on supports, and actually lets go to cross doorways. Sometimes she simply barges into space, but usually falls before she contacts an object. Then she claps her hands and crawls to something or someone who will help her to her feet. Immediately, she barges forth again, so she certainly has no fear of falling any more.

Displaying Initiative Whenever Carol shows signs of initiative, we are especially proud parents. She has a way of making her wants known by leading people where she wants to go. She surprised a group of us one day when she led one of the visitors to her room and opened her clothes cupboard to display some new dresses. Carol is strictly feminine in her delight with new clothes. The different textures must interest her by appealing to her developing tactile sense. Carol responds to flattery, and holds very still while a ribbon is being tied on her curls. She is proud of her curls, and smiles when they get pats and caresses from an admirer as often as six times a day.

The only place Carol won't lead me is to the bathroom. I take her at certain intervals because she hasn't shown any signs of assuming the responsibility. Two years ago, she would twist her skirt as an indication but the gesture was so slight that it went unnoticed too often to be dependable. Just recently she has come to me a few times just about the time I was scheduled to take her, so she may be getting the idea. Traveling, and changes of environment have interfered with progress along this line.

Carol is learning to have more patience with me when I make wrong guesses concerning what she wants. If she can't find what she

No one knows what MAY result. It may be this, that or the other thing. It may be two or more combined ills. No one knows. But it IS known that removing the cause dispels the effects. CAROL'S FOURTH YEAR

wants herself, she leads me to the place it was when last she had it.
She won't give up trying until she is convinced that what she wants is gone. She is careful to put her own toys in her cupboard, and I never interfere with things there; but transportable equipment, such as clotheshorse, vacuum sweeper, and mop, that are usually in the closets, and visitors' belongings, such as goloshes, hats, and canes,
do not remain stationary.
Carol likes everything in its place, a fact that she ably demonstrated before a news reporter and his photographer who were mainly interested in a background for a picture. Carol insisted that the furniture be returned to its original position as soon as she discovered the change. Next day, however, she wanted to spend moving furniture. She hadn't known till then that it was possible to move some of the larger and heavier pieces. That was an exhausting day. Carol used to object to my moving a corner floor lamp to better illuminate my desk on dull days. Now, if she discovers the typewriter on the desk, she insists that I move the lamp from the corner, whether the day is bright or dull.
Carol makes the rest of us practically slaves to her routine. Once while I was answering the phone, Carol let the water out of her tub and went dripping up the hall in her nudity to her room where she was discovered in the process of climbing into bed.
Carol's routine includes some free time in the privacy of her own room. After lunch, she has a ride on her swinging horse, then climbs into bed for a rest, after which she plays alone with her toys before she comes to me for her music lesson. This same procedure takes place regularly, so I know what she is doing without disturbing her coveted privacy. On the day she became the artist, everything sounded very much as usual from the next room. What I didn't know was that she could reach the jars on her highboy by standing on a chair and stretching.
Neither did I know that she could unscrew the lid of a jar. She had done both, and what a thorough finger-painting demonstration she gave with zinc ointment as the medium. I wish I could have seen her at work in her bed, on the broadloom, in her toy cabinet, and on the walls. Of course I would have spoiled her fun if I had interfered with her art—and I certainly would have been obliged to interfere if I had known. As soon as I heard her on her horse, I went to her—she seemed very satisfied with the complete redecorating job she had done, and had put the half-emptied jar into her cupboard —for future use, I suppose. Fortunately Carol never puts strange mixtures into her mouth. Parents are so careless at times that it's a wonder any child reaches maturity.
Behavior: Results of Partial Sight Carol's partial sight in one eye has developed to the extent that she now sees particles of food on her bib, a small toy at her feet, or a person across the room. Her little eye is noticeably steadier than it was, although it still quivers, and can only focus momentarily on a specific object. Her interest in the reflection of sunlight on the floor was the first indication that she could see. Later, shiny reflections on glass attracted her attention. Objects had to be very close at first, and moving objects were easier to locate than still ones.
Those were happy, though somewhat trying, days: the day Carol stopped eating nicely by mechanically lifting her food from her dish to her mouth and started to investigate the underside of a full spoon; the day she tried to pick the vegetables out of her soup;
and the day she plunged her face into the custard—all the better to see it! A friend dropped in when we were in the midst of one of these messy meals, and aptly commented, "Now you're having some of the problems we have with our children." I think of that remark each time Carol gets into a little mischief, and am glad she does have some of the childish inclinations of ordinary active children.
Even though Carol sees just a small section at a time of close-range objects, and can only focus for a few seconds, she is having a great deal of fun seeing; she further investigates with her hands the things that attract her eyes.
She leads me around the house
turning on lights when darkness comes. She manipulates the light switch in her room with much self-satisfaction after climbing by way of a chair onto her bed to reach it.
Carol's imperfect vision is an added physical strain but after an extended number of sleeping hours she is rested for more investigation tours. Carol always seems ready for bed at 7 p.m., and usually has to be awakened at 9 a.m., besides sleeping in the afternoons.
She often sings in a happy habbling manner for quite a long time before she goes to sleep.

News On Recreation

By C. R. Blackstock, committee chairman, Newmarket Recreation Council

This is the first appearance of a regular feature, which will be devoted to recreation activities.

The Newmarket Community Recreation Council is now well on its way. Organized early in the winter to promote more recreation for the citizens through their existing clubs and groups and to promote interest in other activities, the recreation council has some solid achievement to its credit. The various sub-committees of the executive are made up of some 30 or more citizens keenly interested in this joint effort to make Newmarket a happier place in which to live. These sub-committees have spent a lot of time planning the program that is now being initiated through the office of the coordinator who started work this week.

Most of you will be aware of the survey for information and the canvass for funds which is now being conducted throughout the town. The survey will give the recreation council the information it needs to make further plans and to be of greater assistance to more and more people in their play. The funds being sought are to finance the community-wide projects such as the Learn to Swim campaign and to aid groups which need some help with the equipment or play spaces.

R. E. "Dick" Mather, the coordinator, has had considerable experience as a teacher, coach and instructor. He is well prepared to handle the work he has undertaken for the summer months in Newmarket. As chairman of the recreation council, may I suggest that you meet him, ask his assistance or confer with him on any recreation problem which may arise with your particular group. Please remember that recreation is a joint effort of all the people in Newmarket, which, if well done, will give this town a feature about which we can all be proud and happy.

There will be more play for the tiny tots at sand boxes; there will be more ball for the bigger boys and girls; the adolescents will have a better time and more things to do in Newmarket because of their youth club; more people will be able to play tennis and get instruction; there can be track and field meets during the summer; more youths will join the cyclist club, and dozens of children between the ages of eight and 14 years will have a chance to learn to swim and so protect their own lives for all the years to come. The Lions club set a fine standard last summer through the work they did at their park. They are going to carry on and the recreation council will, perhaps, be able to add a little more supervised play for the children of the town in other parts of it.

This thing is yours. It can be as big as you are and as great as your dreams if all of us enter into it wholeheartedly and bigheartedly. The Newmarket Recreation Council is so constituted that it is bound not to interfere with any organization and its work. It is ready to assist, aid and promote. What it does and what it accomplishes is to our credit—the credit of the people of Newmarket.

MAY DAY TEA

By GOLDEN GLOW

The May Day tea held last Saturday afternoon in the Stuart Scott school was a most delightful affair. It was put on by Miss Evelyn Denne's domestic science pupils and the Home and School Association.

Each table had its centrepiece of May flowers, in fact there were spring flowers everywhere and the girls who served us all looked particularly charming in their pretty summer dresses with flowers in their hair. The girls deserve to be complimented on their efforts. They should be proud of their teacher who could obtain such good results.

The tea was served in the upper hall, while in one of the downstairs rooms was the bake-table and white elephant sale. The proceeds are in aid of the out-of-doors rink for smaller children for which the Home and School Association is working. The afternoon was rainy with a thunder-storm threatening but there was a good turn out in spite of inclement weather. Different girls supplied music on the piano all afternoon, which added greatly to the enjoyment.
